

Consultant/Senior Consultant - Acoustics

We're currently recruiting for an experienced Consultant/Senior Consultant to join our Acoustics team. If you have a relevant degree or post graduate qualification in acoustics, and are an associate or full member of the Institute of Acoustics then get in touch.

You'll have circa 5+ years' experience, with a background in preparing acoustic assessments for planning, preferably with a focus on building acoustics assessments.

The role could be remote, but preferably living near one of our offices – in London, Nottingham, Ipswich, Billericay, Bristol and West Malling – would be beneficial.

Key Responsibilities:

- Prepare acoustic assessment reports for residential/commercial schemes
- A strong emphasis on building acoustics and preparation of detailed assessments
- Scoping and pricing assessments
- Liaising with clients and team members across a multi-disciplinary team
- Project management
- Undertake noise mapping / modelling (CadnaA)
- Specification of mitigation measures
- Preparation of information to address noise pertinent planning conditions
- Assist with the development and growth of the noise team

Benefits:

- Competitive salary / package
- Support and resources to grow within the noise team
- Paid professional subscription
- Remote working IT and support arrangements

Ardent is an award-winning multi-disciplinary civil engineering consultancy. Through our London headquarters and five regional centres, we offer infrastructure planning, detailed design, transport planning, noise and flood risk management services to the land development and property sector across the UK.

To apply please email your CV to Lee Dursley, Principal Acoustic Consultant: ldursley@ardent-ce.co.uk. No recruitment agencies thank you.